U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service

Dear Sirs:

Attached is my evaluation of the work experience of Francisco Pedro Nazar in terms of a degree issued by an accredited American college or university.

My evaluation is based upon the assumption that in various fields there is a level of functioning on the job which suggest an academic degree of one kind or another. I reached my conclusion by examining the applicant's formal education history, focusing particular attention upon his job responsibilities documented by employers.

My qualifications are as stated in the attached resume. As Associate Dean of the School of Business Administration (SBA), I chair the SBA Undergraduate Admissions Committee. As part of my responsibilities, I am called upon to review college credits earned by transfer students at U.S. and foreign universities. On occasion, I am also asked to grant course waivers based upon work and professional experience. An example would be an individual with substantial experience in the computer field. Such a person might well be waived from a required basic computer course.

In addition, during past years I have often served on the executive MBA (X-MBA) Admissions Committee. It has been my experience that each entering X-MBA class has a small percentage of individuals who have not earned a bachelor's degree, but who do have substantial work experience in business. This exception to normal admissions criteria is based upon the assumption that successful business executives have achieved, through work experience, the equivalent of a bachelor's degree in business.

I have been doing work experience evaluations as an associate of Josef Silny & Associates, Inc. International Education Consultants, since 1988. All of my work experience evaluations have been accepted by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Consequently, I am considered, by your definition, a "Recognized Authority."

Sincerely,

James W. Foley

6. HUNDREDS OF COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

4. A baccalaureate degree is a common prerequisite for the recent positions held by Mr. Nazar.

5. Mr. Nazar's formal education, training and employment experience in the field of marketing, is equivalent to that required of our marketing majors in the Bachelor of Business Administration Degree Program. Mr. Nazar's academic record indicates that he has earned the equivalent of 102 semester credit hours of study at a regionally accredited college or university in the United States. Mr. Nazar has four years and three months of documented professional experience in marketing, which following the three-for-one INS formula is equivalent to 45 semester credit hours in the business field. Therefore, his education combined with his work experience are equal to 147 semester credit hours in the field of business and marketing. A four year bachelor's degree in business and marketing at the University of Miami requires completion of 120 semester credit hours. Consequently, Mr. Nazar's education and work experience exceed the credit hours requirement for the U.S. degree Bachelor of Business Administration with a major in marketing.

In summary, Mr. Nazar has clearly proven himself to be a competent professional whose combination of education and work experience is the equivalent of the U.S. degree Bachelor of Business Administration with a major in marketing.

Respectfully submitted,

Evaluation of Work Experience of Francisco Pedro Nazar in Terms of Equivalent Degree at an Accredited American College or University for Consideration by the Immigration and Naturalization Service

I have examined the work history (presumed to be verifiable) of Mr. Francisco Pedro Nazar. This evaluation is based upon an evaluation of his formal educational background and an evaluation of his job descriptions, with special emphasis upon the period 1994 to October 2000, during which time Mr. Nazar held various managerial positions with increasing levels of responsibility.

Based upon my professional experience (see attached resume), I conclude that Francisco Pedro Nazar has achieved, through his work experience, the equivalent of a bachelor's degree in business administration with a major in marketing.

This conclusion is based upon the following:

1. Mr. Nazar's academic record indicates that he has earned the equivalent of 102 semester credit hours in Advertising and related courses at a regionally accredited institution of higher education in the United States.

2. Mr. Nazar's recent positions have been professional in nature, involving increasingly higher levels of responsibility. From 1994 to 1998, Mr. Nazar was Co-founder and Executive Vice President of AWK/Adworks Publicidad (Buenos Aires, Argentina). From March 2000 to October 2000, Mr. Nazar was employed by Viajo.com Inc. (Buenos Aires, Argentina), holding the position of Chief Marketing Officer.

3. Mr. Nazar's recent positions have required a broad understanding of various functional fields of business such as finance, accounting, management and marketing, as well as areas of law relating to business.
