Title	:	Saudi Aramco Cuts Hundreds of Jobs Amid Oil Market Downturn, Sources Say
Summary	:	State oil giant Saudi Aramco started laying off hundreds of employees this month, two sources familiar with the matter said, as global energy companies reduce their workforces in response to the coronavirus crisis. Like other top oil firms, Aramco has cut capital spending for 2020 after the pandemic brought an unprecedented drop in oil demand and hammered crude prices. Oil majors have cut workforces by 10% to 15% to cuts costs and as part of restructuring plans. Most of those who lost jobs at Aramco were foreigners, the sources said. One source estimated that 500 people had been laid off, adding that the job losses were mostly based on performance and similar actions took place each year. Aramco has more than 70,000 employees.

Title	:	Saudi Aramco to use cash and debt to uphold dividends pledge amid reports of job cuts
Summary	:	Saudi Aramco maintained its pledge to make good on its dividend payments, saying Thursday that it would mobilize cash and debt to fulfill the $18.75 billion payouts for the first quarter of this year despite taking a hit from the coronavirus pandemic and lower oil prices. The state oil giant, the world's largest single producer of crude, saw a 25% hit to its net income in the first quarter as oil prices plunged amid global lockdowns while countries tried to fight the spread of the virus. The months since the pandemic set in have seen the worst financial downturn for Saudi Arabia in decades, with the double blow of the coronavirus and low oil prices forcing it to enact austerity measures including cutting public spending and tripling its value-added tax.

(3) Due to the exceptionally small number of shares held by some of the Shareholders (above), and the use of only three (3) decimal points to reflect their proportional percentage, will account for why the Total Shareholding is not displaying "100%".
