Certifications are not applicable to Soltaic Island Energy at this time. Soltaic Island Energy is a Puerto Rico-based PPA provider/project company responsible for project development, ownership/financing structure, and long-term power purchase agreement administration. Installation, construction, and applicable technical certifications are handled by the project installer/EPC, Windmar, which has submitted its corresponding certification information separately.